“ See you all soon. I actually thanked God today for all I have.

This man, your dad, your grand dad, your friend, your husband... was more than a dad to just you boys and girls. This man nurtured every dream I ever had in some way form or fashion. He made sure he was there to encourage me to continue to pursue my passions and my adventures and to this day I still can't go a day without something reminding me of him.

He was a mentor he was a man of God he was a friend and in more ways than one he was a better dad than my dad ever dreamed of being. It was because of your dad's compassion and how he displayed that to others that all you boys were able to lay witness to and because of that I met you all in a time when all I had was the clothes on my body. I'll never forget the times I got so mad because I let him down or even when I thought that I would let him down because I couldn't get a certain job done and when the tools wouldn't work right I would sling it across the shop and it would bounce off the wall and make a big explosion sound as I'm sure you all know LOL and then I would hear a voice out of nowhere say, what good did that do.,... well it definitely didn't get this nut off, but it sure made me feel better.

This man, this little man would just laugh hilariously hysterically at me and you know no one's ever been able to do that and get away with it especially when I was beating myself up more than anyone else could. All of this would happen then as we both left the job walking away from it together,... then he would say are you ready to get it done yet,? and I would say yes sir, then he would say "we'll lets try this," and then immediately this little man that said very little was able to accomplish something so easy while I just stood there with my mouth open in awe.

Your dad was only the third man in my life at that time that I'd ever heard tell me he loved me and I knew when I heard it he meant it. I'll also never forget the last time I saw him he was working on this crane thing that wouldn't lift his wheelchair into the truck and he fought with it and fought with it... So I told him let me try within minutes both of us working together we had it going like we always do.

Fly High Roy Robertson I'll handle the hard work that's left down here. but if I know you you'll just smile and keep doing it the easy way!!!! Let me add one more thing to this I'll never forget the time that he was the only human on this planet that made sure that my freedom exists and I remember the exact words he said,... he said son, he said..... you're worth more to me out of jail than you are in the jail... and I ain't been back since....

I love you all can't wait to see you again soon.
